made on its present lines, the avenue would That a strong base ball club cannot be of making a straight extension, a slight built up without a liberal expenditure in money has been repeatedly shown. The New York club has been buying good players freely during the past year, and this season will rank among the leaders. In a little over one year the New York club has Connecticut avenue extended would be put out about $20,000 for players, as folreached, and then continuing along this lows: $7,500 for Meakin and Farrell, $6,000 street up to the point where the street for Ward, $2,000 for Van Haltren, $2,000 for German and Wilson, $1,000 for Stafford, $1,000 for Petty, $500 for Clark. Such liberality should be rewarded by local patrons.

Vice President Ruckstuhl of the Louisville to the head of the present Woodley bridge club scores the Wagners unmercifully for selling their star players to New York. "Base ball is dead in Washington," says he, "and when that team comes to Louisville I This proposed line is made a part of the map of the extension of streets in that secshall see to it that nobody knows the Washtion of the suburbs. The owners of the ingtons are in town. I'll not advertise their Phelps property have dedicated a strip of games and stand the loss myself."

Various reports are circulating regarding Jim O'Rourke. One is that he is liable to go to St. Louis. This is hardly likely, though Von der Ahe has secured no manager yet. It is also said that O'Rourke will be one of the league umpires. Before completing the big deal Talcott and Wheeler asked Anson what he thought of Meakin and Farrell. "If you con get 'em

Farrell will be used behind the bat for New York, Davis playing third.

According to Ward and Hanlon, Meakin has a speedier ball than Amos Rusie, and has also excellent command of a puzzling alow hall. He is a comparatively your slow ball. He is a comparatively young man who has only been in fast company about two years, and who is "coming" all proposed to make under the street extension Washington has five Saturdays at home: Chicago is said to want Dan Richardson for second base.

As an indication of the renewed interest in base ball it is stated that Capt. Anson made a bet of $500 with Treasurer Talcott that the Chicago team would beat the New York giants in the championship race. It is not stated, however, that as soon as it was known that the New Yorks had bought Farrell and Meakin Mr. Talcott was magnanimous enough to call the wager off. He didn't want to bet on a sure thing. The $500 cup to be played for by the League teams finishing first and second in the coming race was donated, it is said, by ex-President John B. Day of the New York ex-President John B. Day of the New York club. Mr. Day is still a great lover of base ball, and thinks the New Yorks this year will be up among the leaders.

There is not a single conflicting date on the schedule for the New Yorks and Brooklyns except during the two periods when the western teams will be in the east. western teams will be in the east.

There is more interest in base ball this spring, thinks the Chicago News Record, than was the case last year or the year previous, for the reason that the prospects seem brighter. the St. Louis team. The new rule of section 9 (rule 43) in relation to trapped balls by infielders, seems to have created some adverse criticism, but when it is considered that the play does not occur once a month it makes but little difference if it is wiped out.
"Progressive base ball is just this," said

ty, the recent sale of the Shepherd house at the corner of Connecticut avenue and 17th street and of the Travers house at the northeast corner of 18th and 1 streets has more significance. The former, exclusive of the improvements, is valued according to the price paid at the recent auction sale at a little over $7 per foot, while the latter property, which was sold at private sale, was valued, exclusive of improvements, at about $5.50 per square foot. It is sometimes said that residence property, and, in fact, the assertion is heard in regard to business property, that prices are high. Ed. Harlon the other day. "Instead of making plays that become stereotyped, I believe in making plays that are unexpected. That was the secret of Boston's success last year. With a man on third and one on first, one out, and the score a tie, naturally one would suppose that the catcher would try to nall the man on third off his base. But the unexpected play of quickly throwing to first and catching that base runner asleep is the proper caper nowadays. The man on third doesn't expect such a thing, and consequently doesn't stir. Then, we'll say, the next batsman puts up a fly, and the side is retired without what looked like That's progressive base night to the usual host. All the seats in Convention Hall were filled, and much of the standing room was taken. The great throng of worshipers was in sympathetic touch with the words of Mr. Moody, and swayed in obedience to his will. After the usual preface of song the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Carter. Mr. C. Burlew and Miss Mattie Gray followed in a duet, and Mr. Moody read several verses from the thirtieth chapter of John. Rev. Mr. Woodruff then led in prayer, and Mr. Moody made the customary innouncement as to future meetings. A women's service would be held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and a service for men at night. There was no special Gospel for either sex, but the ladies could most conveniently come in the afternoon and the men at night.

A Vivid Picture of the Ancient Cities of Refuge.

EVENINGS FOR THE MEN

No ladies would be admitted at this meeting, and ill feeling should not be vented on the ushers for enforcing the rule. If husbands and wives objected to being separated, they could attend the overflow meet ing. At a majority of the previous meet-ings the attendance had been four-fifths ladies, and this sex should give the men a chance. The hymn, "Abundantly Able to Save," followed.

Mr. Moody said that he was not so anxious to preach a sermon as to tell the audience what to do to be saved. There was nobody present but who had had enough sermons, if they had but heeded them.

The Way is Plain. Almost any one could tell the way of life to those who wanted to listen. He advised the audience to forget that he was going to preach a sermon. He related an incident to the effect that once he was sent to attend the bedside of a dying niece, who wanted to know what to do to be raved. When he reached the chamber of the girl, she said: "Uncle. I am very weak, put it plain." This is what he wanted to do with the audience. He wanted to put it plain. There was nothing plainer than the plan of salvation. All knew what it was to sin and to be forgiven. We could look back into the days of our childhood and recall how we had sinned at times against our parents, had confessed and had been forgiven.

'Confess to God, and believe that He will do as He promises. You didn't doubt your parents when they promised to forgive you, then why will you doubt the promise of God." A lady had written a note asking whether a person could be forgiven without feeling that he or she was forgiven. Hopes of heaven could not be built on feeling. It was the power and the mercy of God to save. Mr. Moody said that once in an overflow meeting at Manchester, England, a man stood on the outskirts of the crowd man stood on the outskirts of the crowd. He looked like a skeptic. Mr. Moody asked if he was interested in the service, and he replied that he would very much like to be told what to do to become a Christian. Mr. stranger was not satisfied. Another pas-sage was read by the evangelist with the same result. Then the skeptic said: "The fact is, Mr.

Moody, that I can't feel that I am saved."
Mr. Moody responded: "Was it Noah's feeling that saved him, or was it the ark?" feeling that saved him, or was it the ark:
"I see it," said the man.
"I looked for that man many times," said Mr. Moody. "Finally, several weeks after the incident, a man approached me and said: 'Do you remember the ark man? That settled it with me. I have not had a min-ute of darkness since that time. Wherever you go, tell the people about the ark. Christ is the Ark.

"Step into the ark," said Mr. Moody, "it s not feeling or good intentions that save. God had provided an ark and that ark was Christ. The ark was His prophet, priest and king. Make that ark your place of refuge. Accept Christ. Surrender yourself to Christ and put your trust in God.
"When the Israelites got into the promised land they erected cities of refuge, and if a man reached such a city, no matter with what crime he was charged, he was safe. No revenge could be visited upon a man who had reached this shelter. " 'How can a man be saved all at once? asks some one.

"Suppose that I was hewing wood at a point ten miles from one of these places of refuge, and that the ax should slip and kill a man who happened to be standing near me. The brother of that man is but half a mile away. I flee to the city of refuge. The roads are kept in good order and the guide posts clearly direct the way. Onward I run. The brother of the dead man is pursuing me. Over hills and through valleys I rush. The watchman on the walls sees me coming. He gives the alarm, and the people rush to the walls. The pursuer is behind me. I am running fast. I do not stop to discuss theology. The question is to save my life. There is no time for poetry or rhetoric. Nearer and nearer we come to the city. My foe is gaining on me. I am near enough to hear the people in the city shout, 'Run, run; hurry; don't tarry.' The dagger of my enemy is raised. I am close to the gate, but if he strikes me before I reach it, I might just as well have been ten miles away. At last I am inside, I have crossed the threshold of the city. One second I was outside and in danger, and in another second I am in-side and safe. Wasn't that Instantaneous salvation? Quick work, wasn't it? Salvation at Opce.

"Under the fugitive slave act a maste could reclaim his slave, even after he had crossed Mason and Dixon's line, but let him cross the line into Canada, and the bondman was safe. Oh! come out of the durkness of the world into the sunlight of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Come, you can do it if you will. Salvation can be accomplished instantly if you will have it so. Once in England I saw a red-coated soldier coming down the street, and I stopped and asked him if he would let me ply him with a few questions.

"'Certainly,' he said.
"'How long did it take you to enlist?" said I. " 'No time,' said the soldier. 'I just made and the very instant I said that I wanted to join the army of Queen Victoria he dropped a shilling in my hand, and I was a British soldier without having put on a uniform or attended a drill. "One minute that man had been a citizen, and the next minute a soldier. What is heaven's decree? That as soon as you shall receive Jesus Christ so soon as you shall receive Jesus Christ so soon shall you be saved. So now tonight, just as that man received a shilling and became by the law of England a soldier, so may you receive Christ and become a soldier of the cross. There was once a man who got up in one of our meetings and said that he had spent forty-two years in learning three things. The first was that he could do nothing towards his own salvation. People turned over numbers of leaves and made new resolutions every time they got stirred up by some preacher. The second was that the Lord didn't require you to do anything, and the third was that the Lord Jesus Christ had done it all himself. All one to do was to accept Jesus Christ. He had worked out the plan of salvation."

Our Wreked Lives.

Mr. Moody told the story of the wreck of the steamer Spree, on which he was a passenger. The crash came, the screws broke, and the ship sunk about thirty feet. and the sea was so rough that the life boats were useless. No helping craft was in sight. It was then that they realized how helpless they were. The darkness of the night settled down upon them, and ant and that he had taken three other vic-tims in Kentucky and Tennessee and kept them in the same manner he had the Har-ian county girl until they died for to the passengers like a star, but the experienced eye of the mariners told that it was the light of a vessel bearing down upon them. I can't tell you the joy we felt when our deliverance came. When we were towed into Queenstown harbor how joyous-University held a meeting recently, at ly did we leap on the shore. If you can get which a committee on by-laws and one on out of the old wreck of yours, spring ashore to deliver the captive and snap the fetters Mr. Moody invited the audience to come under the banner of light and love. "An Englishmen had come to America and then gone down to Cuba. He was arrested, tried in a court where his language could not be understood, and whose language he could not understand, and was sentenced to be shot. The British and American consults attempted to interfere on the ground that snot. The British and American consuls attempted to interfere on the ground that the man was innocent, but the authorities told them that the law must take its course. At last the day of execution came. The condemnel man was given a seat on his coffin on the edge of the grave and the coffin on the edge of the grave and the black cap was adjusted. The file of sol-diers was drawn up and the commanding officer was just about to order 'fire' when the American and English consuls rushed in and wrapping the Union Jack and the star and stripes around the body of the con-demned man cried: 'Fire on those flags if you dare.'" Get under the banner of the Lord. Let the everlasting arms embrace you and you will be safe for time and eternity. Come under the banner that floats over this audience. Let others do as they please, I am going to get under that ban-

Mr. Moody preached and prayed last Record of Broken Vows. "Life seems different to me now to what it did when I was a young man. Looking shead from my young days, life seemed a very long way to travel, but looking back, it seems very short. Days now seem like what hours used to seem. Look around you and ask yourselves, who you are, what you are, and where you are. It would be an extraordinary occasion if all the people in the audience should pay their vows. People are leading bad lives because of broken vows. As you look back into the past can't you see a tombstone that marks the grave of your mother? Can't you recollect that dark night when you were awakened by a rap on your door and were told that your mother was dying? Can't you remem-ber as you stood by her bed and saw her form feeble in death and felt the hot presure of her hand? Can't you recall that she "I am leaving you now, and I want to

"Can't you recall how the tears flowed on that night, and how you determined to meet her in the land beyond the skies; can't the funeral you promisely promise you recall how, at the funeral, you promised the minister that you would become a Christian? Where are you now? The influence of that mother is gone. Let there be joy in heaven tonight that you are coming. Now, look back just a little way and see that mound fresh made, in which lies the form of a little child. Can't you recall how, at the bedside of that dying child, it plead with you to become a Christian? Won't you pay your vows in the presence of these tombs? Set your face toward heaven, that you may spend eternity with those whom you have loved, but who have passed to the other side. Let us tonight repent of our sins and prepare for our departure from this world of heartbreaks. Open your eyes tonight and the Savior will carry you safely across. Throw yourself on the bosom of God and be saved. Make a full, final and unconditional sur-render to God. Let us make good our

Then Mr. Moody prayed. He thanked God for His Son; that He had come and lit up the world with His light of truth and made it possible for all of us to be saved. He asked that those present give up trying to save themselves and deliver themselves into the keeping of God. He asked that the Savior might come to the door of our hearts and knock and that we might hear His voice and know Him. He asked that the spirit of God might be shed abroad and that a wave of salvation might spread over the hall. He asked that men be delivered from the work of the flesh fvered from the work of the flesh.

Following Mr. Moody's prayer came the singing of hymn 420, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus." A prayer by Rev. Dr. Widerman was the next event of the service. Rev. Mr. Bailey also prayed, and the choir and congregation sang, "Take Me As I Am." Mr. Moody arose and said that he would ask three of the ministers present to throw out life lines in the form of verses of Scripture. The old book was full of life lines. Rev. Dr. Muir selected that passage of Scripture which reads: "He that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." Rev. Dr. Wilson chose the twenty first reads? Dr. Wilson chose the twenty-first verse of the third chapter of Revelations, "Behold, I stand at the door, and if any man hear my voice. I will come in and sup with him and He with me." Rev. Mr. Bagby chose the quotation: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son." These ministers made appropriate comments upon the passages which they had chosen. The exercises closed with the singing of hymn 71. "Welcome Mr. and Mrs. Thurber and Mrs. Clark, a

Greatest Book in the World. At the afternoon meeting yesterday Convention Hall was crowded. The preponderance of ladies was especially noticeable. Mr. Sankey sang the familiar hymn. "Throw Out the Life Line," and the choir followed with "Guide Me, O, Thou Great Jehovah." Rev. Dr. Bartlett led in prayer, and Mr. Sankey sang "Some Sweet Day, By and By." Mr. Sankey and Miss Carrie Ayer rendered a duet and the hyma, "Wonderful Words of Life." After the singing of other hyman. singing of other hymns Rev. Mr. Muir offered prayer. Mr. Moody made several In the course of his sermon he said that study. In order to promote hale and hearty spiritual growth it was best to feed on the Word of God. The book was the greatest and the best and the most fascinating book of all books. It was full of hidden beauties which study would reveal. People needed less consolation from their ministers and more from their Bibles, If they happened to be sick and couldn't get to church, they could take the best kind of spiritual consolation at home. Feed your children on the Bible, feed yourselves on the Bible, and backsliding will be impossible. Mr. Moody then told of how he had studied the Bible. When a man became a good, healthful, Bible-fed Christian, he could communicate his joy to others.

Mr. Moody believed in sudden conversion

Mr. Moody believed in sudden conversion. It could be wrought instantaneously. St. John and St. Peter converted 3,000 Jews on one day, and 5,000 on the next. Mr. Moody made a defense of revivals, which were sometimes attacked by church people. The argument was made that all the converts made at revivals did not stick. All the blossoms of a tree did not better forth forth. blossoms of a tree did not bring forth fruit. But many did. Then someone says, "Revivals are accompanied by too much religlous excitement." There is no religion on earth which did not spring out of a revival. "How many of you were converted at some special service?" cried Mr. Moody, and about 1,000 people stood up. Modern preachers, many of them at least, thought preachers, many of them at least, thought Mr. Moody, talked for oratorical effect and for the purpose of making reputations as fine speakers. They took their text from the Bible and then soared up in a balloon. The world didn't want the ideas of ministers so much as it needed God's thoughts. The service closed with prayer and music.

Gonzaga Hall Association.

A meeting of the Gonzaga Hall Associa tion of the parish of St. Aloysius' Roman Catholic Church was held last Monday evening to take action relative to raising funds for the proposed new hall. Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Gonzaga College Fund Asso-clation in the basement of the church. The object of the meeting is for organization and the reception of members. The new college building, which will contain a large hall, will cost about $75,000. Of that amoun $45,000 has been subscribed; $30,000 addition al will be required. When one-half of the entire sum has been paid in the work will be commenced, and in a short time college hall will be completed.

IN THE CHURCHES

Four important conferences of Methodist

Churches will be held this month, two of which will take place in this city. The annual meeting of the churches of the Washington conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church (colored) will be heid on next Wednesday, March 7, at the Zion M. E. Church of the city, Bishop Hurst will preside. On the same date the Baltimore conference, with Bishop Fowler of Minnesota presiding, will commence its session at Frederick, Md. The Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South will meet at Fredericksburg, Va., with Bishop Granbury presiding, on March 28. On April 4 the annual conference of the Methodist Protestant Church of the Maryland conference will begin its three days' session at the Congress Street M. P. Church in Georgetown. The president of the conference, who is elected annually, but usually serves a term of about three years, is J. D. Kinzer of Baltimore, who will preside at the coming session. The secretary of the conference is H. L. Elder-dice. The conference consists of the minister and one layman from each church, and about 300 delegates are expected in the and about 300 delegates are expected in the city, who will be entertained by the members of the Congress Street Church. As the membership of the church hardly numbers more than 390, arrangements are already being actively pushed so that he church may entertain all the guests. As the conferences approach, the interest increases and the vital topic is who will stay, or who will so, or where he'll go or whe' will go, or where he'll go, or where he'l come from. The term limit in the Metho dist Episcopal Church is five years, and in the Methodist Episcopal Church South four years, while the Methodist Protestant Church fixes no limit, but by custom a minister rarely stays at the same place more than a year or so. There will, all tool, probably be nearly a dozen changes in this city.

The congregation of the Metropolitan

Baptist Church, corner of 6th and A streets northeast, are now talking of rebuilding, and within another half year, perhaps, will have begun work on a new church. When they do build, however, whether it be sooner or later, they expect to put up a structure which will be the finest house of worship in that Section of the city. The question has for some time now been in the hands of a building committee, which has been examining plans and extending the second of the city. been examining plans and studying the construction of other new and model churches elsewhere. The new church will be built of white stone, and in appearance and design will constitute the construction. and design will combine the best of three prominent western churches, which have met with the approval of the committee, although it will not be like anything of its kind in the country. Appleton Ciark, jr., has so far had charge of the plans for the church, and will probably be the architect of the new building, the cost of which will not come under $50,000, and will prob-ably go much beyond that figure. The congregation own the lot on the corner of 6th and A streets, which is said to be the highest point on Capitol Hill, and there are at present two buildings on the site-the original church, now used for the Sunday school, and right beside it a structure built at a later date, and at present being occupied for regular church services. It is the intention of the people to tear down the present church edifice first and complete the chapel of the new church on the spot as soon as possible, after which the body of the church can be finished at will. body of the church can be finished at will. The church, from the present plans, will have a stone tower and a corner from on 6th and A streets. The building committee in charge of the work consists of Allan C. Clark, E. E. Davis, William Hatton, J. O'C. Roberts and V. Hanks.

A number of men met at St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum last Sunday to arrange for an entertainment to be given for the benefit of that institution soon. Mr. James Fullerton was appointed chairman, and Mr. Edward Voigt secretary. After discussing several suggestions, the meeting adjourned until tomorrow night at 7:30 J'clock. St. Vincent's Asylum is very much in need of until tomorrow night at 7:30 J'clock. St. Vincent's Asylum is very much in need of funds. The unpaid bills amount to about $14,000, and many things are urgently needed for the large number of orphans who are dependent on the sisters for support. The nature of the entertainment has not yet been decided upon, nor a date set.

Rev. J. W. Lee, the evangelist, is in the city. He has just come from Virginia, where he has been holding a number of prolific revivals. Last Sunday he addressed the congregation of the Tabernacie Congregacongregation of the Tabernacie Congrega-tional Church, on 9th street below B street southwest. He will probably undertake to outhwest some revival services in the city

A sociable of the members of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church on 15th street northwest will be held in the Grand Army Hall on Easter Monday.

The inquirers' meetings held every afternoon at 1:30 in the Assembly Presbyterian Church, corner of 5th and 1 streets northwest, in order to give an opportunity to those who wish to talk quietly to the evangelists and the pastors of the churches on religious subjects, have brought out many gelists and the pastors of the churches on religious subjects, have brought out many people. After Moody leaves the city next week, and the big meetings at Convention Hall are no more, the services will go on, however, for the rest of the week at all events at the Assembly Presbyterian Church, and will be led by various pastors of the city. of the city.

The Congress Street Methodist Protestant

Church in Georgetown is arranging for a festival and bazaar to commerce next Wed-nesday night and to last for three nights. A sewing circle has recently been organ-ized in the parish of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church to teach the little girls how to sew well and rapidiy. It meets every Saturday morning at 10:30. About March 17 work will be resumed on the new St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church. Some changes have been deter-mined upon in the plans for the building, which will be of pressed brick, with light brown stone trimmings. The church will be completed as rapidly as the character of the work will permit. Several plans for a pastoral residence have been considered, but nothing definite as to the locality or the style of building has been determined

HOW'S YOUR LIVER?

Have you got a liver? If you don't know, you're happy man. There's nothing the matter with If, on the other hand, the liver is out of order you will soon know you possess such an organ. When it becomes overloaded, owing to its inability to secrete bile, and becomes shiggish, or is congested through accumulation of blood in the veins, or jaundice is set up by catarrh of the passages of the bile, or what we know as ordinary liver complaint, as the result of nervous domina tion, is our scourge, not only is great pain the consequence, but all the light goes out of life and everything looks dark and gloomy and threatening. and we are very apt to look on the wrong side of things. The quickest and most efficacious remedy is the Carlsbad Sprudel Water, or, if you cannot conveniently take the water, use the genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salt (which is the solid evaporation of the waters), which will not only restore you to comfort, but make you stronger all round, and of a clearer, brighter and happier mind. Story of a Man Who Comes 500 Miles to See Him.

Much to the Regret of Many the Sunday Free Clinics Will Be Discontinued.

A Special Lecture to Ludies Wednes day.

The grand results of Dr. Damon's efforts to relieve suffering humanity have been told over and over again, and the cures made have been largely among our own townspeople. Occasionally, hot ever, patients are brought from distant cities and placed under treatment, cured in a short time and then sent on their way rejoicing. Almost every, day Dr. Damon is in receipt of some token of appreciation from a grateful patient in the form of a letter assuring him of the heartfelt thanks of the person cured. The writer, in conversation with Dr. Damon yesterday, was shown several letters, all expressing high appreciation for his noble of forts. Said the doctor: I would rather receive such letters as these from patients that I have worked hard to cure than $50 from each Money will not purchase sympathy or appreciation but such letters as these are more than gold to me. For months Dr. Damon has stood upon the stage at Builders' Exchange Hall and cured people suffering with all manner of diseases something over 850 were treated and cured. These clinics have been attended by nearly 90,000 people, every one of whom is loud in the praisa system that can cure when all else has failed. By permission we publish an extract from one of the letters received yesterday, hoping it may lead some poor sufferer where they can find relief: Dr. Damon-Dear Sir: After having been a sufferer for two years from diabetes, accompanied by a dropsical swelling of the lower limbs, together with cramps and partial paralysts of the limbs, under your care, and now after but six treatments I find myself quite well. The swelling and paralytic conditions are all gone. Thanking you for your attention while with you, I am yours, very, A. F. ANDREWS, Meriden, Conn. Owing to the great practice Dr. Damon and associate physicians are having, the doctor has been obliged to discontinue the Sunday night free lees ture and clinics for the present. He will, however, continue the private lectures to ladies Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Those who may wish to consult these gentlemen privately will find spacious parlors for their convenience at 608 12th street northwest, second door from F street.
